

RESPONSIBLE HOLIDAYS

Travel is essential to many of us not only for holidaying, but also for business and for reconnecting with family. But how can we travel responsibly?

Australians love to travel, it's no secret! But with aviation being a global source of atmospheric pollution through combustion of fossil fuels like kerosene or naphtha, it's important to be an environmentally-conscious traveler. During the COVID-19 outbreak when air-travel dropped significantly, air pollution also decreased (by about 17%!) giving our atmosphere some respite.

From reducing the amount of times we travel, to offsetting the approximate emissions we emit when we do, there are a number of tips we can all use to reduce our impact on the planet...and still get from A to B. Some of these ideas are listed below:

-  Go by train or coach
-  Reduce your overseas travel and holiday locally.
-  Travel light and with reusable belongings
-  Offset your emissions

Find out more about #greentravel

Purchase travel gear from ethical brands – Patagonia

Consider an electric vehicle (EV) for your hire-car – EV Central

Look for low-impact accommodation – Qantas Green Tier

Consider public transport while you're away